More than 70 million Americans live with a digestive disease including Crohn's, ulcerative colitis, irritable bowel syndrome, celiac disease, and cancers (colorectal, pancreatic, liver, and stomach). While prevention and treatments are improving, many digestive diseases do not have a cure, leaving millions of patients struggling with debilitating, and sometimes fatal, consequences. The GI Research Foundation (GIRF) is funding groundbreaking research by our partner, the world-renowned University of Chicago Medicine. Our process of getting dollars into the hands of leading researchers is nimble, responsive to doctors' and researchers' needs, and patient centered.

As a grateful gastroenterology patient, Larry A. Pogofsky embraced GIRF's research mission, serving as a Board leader and Foundation President. Larry, one of the original Chicago White Sox investors, was also a die-hard baseball fan. GIRF is proud to present the All-Star Challenge–On the Greens, which honors Larry's love for sports and continues his legacy of funding critical and groundbreaking medical research. We hope you will join us.

2021 All-Star Challenge celebrities included Frank Thomas, Marcus Allen, Toni Kukoc, Ryan Dempster, Jermaine Dye, Fergie Jenkins, Ozzie Guillen, Willie Gault, Adam Russell, Lance Briggs, Scott Posednik, Andrew Vaughn, Lee Smith, Katie Kearney, Darryl Boston, Cliff Floyd, Ryan Cabrera, Frank Winters, Adam Greenberg, Toby Hall, Carl Everett, Brian Anderson, Zach Collins, Joe Crede and more!
